

Screams of Woman Agent of B. R. T. Prevent Hold-Up

New Policeman at Foot of Stairs Rushes Up to Boerum Place Station in Time to Make His First Arrest

A hold-up man attempted to throttle Isabel Felter, ticket agent at the Boerum Place station of the Fulton Street elevated line in Brooklyn at 7:45 p. m. yesterday, when she was snatched up the stairs by a policeman. He was caught while filling his pocket with nickels.

The station is just east of Borough Hall, opposite the Hall of Records. There are several theatres and motion picture houses in the vicinity, many of the Fulton Street shops remain open Saturday evening and it is one of the most populous streets in the borough. Miss Felter, who is fifty-three years old and has been selling tickets there for twenty years, was entering her booth when she was seized around the throat.

A Manhattan-bound train had just left, and for the moment the station was deserted. The woman struggled with her assailant, whose grip choked her screams. She strove vainly to snatch up the stove poker as a weapon, and finally, overpowered and fainting, was flung to the floor.

The chink of coins in the cash drawer aroused her and she began shrieking for help. At the same moment a train pulled in and the motor-man, hearing a woman's screams, pulled his whistle cord for the police. Patrolman Felix Gorman, a patrolman so new he never had had to arrest a man, was at the foot of the elevated stairs on his way home.

He reached the ticket booth just as the train crew swarmed over the platform. A man who stood at the cash drawer surrendered without resistance. He said he was Eugene O'Connell, of 484 Chauncey Street, Brooklyn. Fifty-seven nickels and a quarter were found in his pocket and he was locked up at the Adams Street police station, charged with assault and robbery. Miss Felter went home after receiving medical attention.

New Yorker Dead With A. E. F.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Recapitulation of casualty records of the A. E. F. includes the names of Private Lawrence J. Theiler, 398 Tenth Avenue, New York, rounded, and Private Frank Stuppacher, 244 First Avenue, New York, died from disease. Thirty-five names were added to the casualty list.

Billy Dansey's Mother Calm; Is Sure He'll Be Returned

Points Out His Kewpie Doll and Says He Was Home Boy Who Wouldn't Run Off; Searchers Baffled After 10 Days; Playmate Thinks Bear Ate Him

Staff Correspondence

HAMMONTON, N. J., Oct. 18.—The only individual immediately concerned in the strange disappearance of three-year-old Billy Dansey whose composition remains absolutely unaltered is his mother. Despite the collapse of one hope after another, the falsity of a score of clues and the well intentioned "tips" that led to nothing, Mrs. Dansey passed the tenth day of anxiety with the fixed calm that has never left her. She has come to be credited with being a woman of iron nerve and unusual self-control. The father, who is of delicate constitution, collapsed completely last night and is ill in bed today. He has suffered visibly from the strain.

The tiny, chubby boy with the peaked baseball cap who wandered through the dahlia early on the morning of October 8 has disappeared completely. County Detective P. W. Wilson and his assistant, Benjamin Nussbaum, confess themselves baffled, and while an aggressive search is being kept up all over the countryside, there is now no definite objective, since theory after theory has been exploded.

Lost Theory Is Gaining

The detectives are skeptical about the child being lost in the woods, but the belief is gaining ground in the neighborhood that this is exactly what happened, and that a prolonged search will have results. Mr. Dansey believes Billy was kidnapped in mistake for little Charlie White, his playmate. Mrs. Dansey, on the other hand, is firmly convinced that he was picked up without motive and will be returned. The house by the roadside that he wandered the child for a month's time is besieged all day long. Neighbors stop in to inquire how things are getting along. Detectives and searchers are frequent visitors. Mrs. Dansey receives them with equal impassivity.

"Are you sorry now you left Pittsburgh and came here?" a Tribune reporter asked her yesterday.

"It was the Lord's will," she replied. "Simply dressed in a plaid skirt and shirtwaist, there were no signs of the distracted mother about her. She is not of the type to wring her hands and weep. Seen in a crowd one would be inclined to label her a school teacher although before her marriage she worked in a department store."

Her Reserve Baffles

There is an intense reserve about her that baffles approach. She lacks color, vivacity and concern on the surface at any rate. Persons around her regard her attitude with a mixture of amazement and admiration. It is neither resignation nor stoicism. It is simply tonelessness. Looking steadily through her horn-rimmed glasses, without the suspicion of a tear, she talked unemotionally yesterday of the boy. She was leaning against the kitchen stove, and on the table was a bunch of the fatal dahlia so closely associated with Billy's disappearance. "They will always be hateful to me," she observed, indicating the flowers. "Billy liked flowers, but he had never gone to the dahlia patch until the morning he disappeared. It's ridiculous to suppose that he strayed away by himself. Why, he was such a fat little fellow that he couldn't make any headway. His grandfather had to clear a path for him to get over to play with Charlie White, and that is only about a hundred yards. I never took him into Hammonton that I did not have to carry him half the way. He was a homey little thing, who always wanted to cling to my skirts."

Kewpie His First Love

A saucy Kewpie, veiled and bewigged, reposed on a high shelf. The mother pointed to it.

"Look at it," she said. "That was Billy's little tin god. He called it 'Jean,' after a girl he knew in Pittsburgh, and he wanted me to put it up there so he could see it all the time."

"No, neither my husband nor I ever had an enemy that we knew of. I haven't given up hope for a moment. I firmly believe the boy will be returned to me when some of the excited crowd that stands to re-gain a lost child will be brought back with him now. Too much fuss has been made about the case. People have been kinder to me, though, than they would have been in Pittsburgh. The neighbors have been wonderful. I attach little importance to the various clues. One person's guess is as good as another's. All one can do is wait, but ten days seems a long time, when one has nothing to do but sweep, clean and cook."

And the little bereft mother with the extraordinary spirit returned to her household tasks.

Charlie White, the four-year-old playmate of Billy, has a quaint theory all his own. He is taller than the lost youngster, but not as chubby. His coloring is much the same.

Friend Sure Bear Ate Him

He repeats his story over and over again to his mother and to visitors, for the loss of his playmate seems to have touched him. "Billy was lost" in the woods and the bears ate him. I saw a big animal come out of the woods," he declares.

The physical features of the land in the vicinity of the Dansey home are remarkable. A line of trees flanks the orchard and dahlia patch belonging to Edward H. White and divides his property from that of the Danseys. Open farms lie to the north of the Dansey home; woods to the east and then railroad tracks; open farms to the south and long stretches of marshes and meadows. There is a rich fangous growth interspersed with sandy ground. The falling leaves are piling up day after day in such fashion that the story of the babies lost in the wood could easily be brought up to date. Toadstools sprout around the unhealthy stagnant marshes. Fallen branches are heaped high, and there is a low-growing tangled mass of briars and shrubs. No child could conceivably have travelled far in the face of such difficulties, and Billy Dansey was so notoriously reluctant to use his fat legs that his mother was frequently scolded for making a baby of him by carrying him so much.

City Cuts Food Prices At Navy Man's Request

$90,000 Margin Isn't Needed to Handle Surplus Supplies at Schools, He Points Out

The prices of several of the commodities being sold for the army and navy at public schools was reduced yesterday, following the request of Commander Tricou, in charge of the sale of many surplus foodstuffs in this district. Markets Commissioner Day, in company with Deputy Commissioner W. W. Smith, called on the commander at the Brooklyn Navy Yard yesterday and discussed the prices which the city would have to guarantee and which the public would have to pay.

It was decided by the commander that a five-cent margin on canned bacon was too large and would have to be reduced to three cents. At the public schools, therefore, the tin-canned pound tins of bacon will be sold, beginning Monday, at 25 cents a pound, instead of 28, making the new price $3.12 for a can.

The prices of canned corn, peas and stringless beans were reduced from 12 cents a can to 11 cents at Commander Tricou's request. The canned salmon price will be 15 cents a pound instead of 16. According to Dr. Day, the commander figured that the city margin of profit on its sales of canned goods at the old prices would be $90,000 a week, far beyond the cost of handling the sales. Under the new price schedule, $60,000 will be left to the city to pay expenses.

Cans of evaporated milk were to be sold at 13 cents, but have been reduced to 12 cents.

Announcement was made by Police Commissioner Enright yesterday that a project was under way to establish cooperative stores where patrolmen could purchase foodstuffs. A special committee, composed of inspectors has been organized to study the project. A report, Third Deputy Commissioner A. D. Porter and J. Steven Ulman are acting in an advisory capacity.

Former Wife Sues Broker

Mrs. H. P. Wilson Claims

$31,800 as Unpaid Alimony
Harley P. Wilson, investment broker and officer of several large corporations, was sued in the Supreme Court yesterday by Mrs. Frances M. Wilson for $31,800, which she claims is due her under a separation agreement in 1910.

The Wilsons were married in 1893 and separated in 1910. The separation at first provided that Wilson should pay his wife $900 a month for the support of herself and child. This was later amended to read $1,000 a month. Mrs. Wilson claims that Wilson has not paid $31,800 under this agreement.

Frederick Judson, Noted

St. Louis Attorney, Dead

Tax and Railroad Rate Authority Was Executor of Joseph Pulitzer's Will
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18.—Frederick Newton Judson, lawyer and executor of the will of Joseph Pulitzer, died here today.

Mr. Judson was born in St. Marys, Ga., seventy-four years ago. He studied at the University, where he was graduated as valedictorian in 1886 and was graduated from the law school in 1891. He was admitted to the bar in St. Louis and for two years served as assistant to Governor B. Gratz Brown. Mr. Judson in 1905 he was made special counsel for the United States in the rebates cases against the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad and the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company. He was also retained in 1910 in the injunction suit of the United States against the increased rates of Western railroads. Mr. Judson was an authority on taxation, and served in 1901 as chairman of the conference on taxation held in Buffalo. He was chairman of the Missouri State Taxation Commission in 1906. In 1907 he was appointed a member of the President's commission to investigate the powers of Congress in the regulation of security issues of railroads, and in 1912 was a member of the board of arbitration to settle the difference between the engineers and the Eastern railroads.

Mr. Judson was personnel counsel for Joseph Pulitzer for many years, and in 1913 his fee of $114,000 was contested by Assistant District Attorney C. Train as exorbitant. The request for removal of Mr. Judson as executor was withdrawn when ex-Judge Tich stated that it was not a stigma to be one of the foremost lawyers of the country. It was finally decided that the $50,000 fee in the codicil of the Pulitzer will was all Mr. Judson could claim.

Mr. Judson was personal counsel for Yale Law School in 1913, and was formerly chairman of the Yale Alumni Advisory Council and the Western Federation of Yale Clubs. He was also chairman of the Missouri branch of the League to Enforce Peace in 1917, and was also chairman of the Exemption Board of the Seventeenth War District in St. Louis in the same year. He was the author of several books and many articles in taxation and legal subjects, and wrote a book on "The Law of Interstate Commerce."

General Wolfe-Murray Dead

British Army Man a Veteran of India and South Africa

LONDON, Oct. 18.—General Sir James Wolfe-Murray, who was appointed chief of the Imperial General Staff in December, 1914, and who later held the post of commander in chief of the Eastern command, died today at his home in Peebles, Scotland.

Lieutenant General Sir James Wolfe-Murray was born sixty-six years ago. He was educated at Harrow and the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich, and entered the Royal Artillery in 1872. In 1895 he served at Ashanti as commander of the lines of communication, and was breveted a lieutenant colonel. He was made a colonel in 1899, and from that year until 1900 was commander of the lines of communication in Natal, South Africa, being mentioned twice in dispatches. General Wolfe-Murray was quartermaster general in India for a year, master general of the ordnance for three years, and in command of the 9th Division, India, from 1907 until 1911. He was appointed general officer commanding in chief in Scotland in 1913, and held the same post in South Africa the following year. He was first military member of the British Army Council from 1914 to 1915, and was commander in chief of the Eastern command from 1916 to 1917.

General Sir James Wolfe-Murray was knighted in 1900. He held the Russian Order of St. Anne, first class, and the Order of the White Eagle.

DR. STEPHEN H. LUTZ

Dr. Stephen H. Lutz, forty-seven, president of the Medical Society of Kings County, and a prominent ear, eye, nose and throat specialist of Brooklyn, died Friday of heart disease at his home, 284 Ilanckoff Street, Brooklyn.

Dr. Lutz was born in Elizabeth, N. J., and educated at the College of the City of New York and the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University. He was graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in the class of 1894. Dr. Lutz had an extensive private practice in Brooklyn and at the same time was connected with several hospitals. He was aural surgeon at the Kings County Hospital, the Brooklyn Eastern Dispensary and Hospital and the Jamaica Hospital. He was also connected with the Kings County Hospital, the Kings County Dispensary and the Kings County Hospital. He was a fellow of the American College of Surgeons and a member of the American Otological Society, the American Laryngological Society and the New York Otological Society.

JOHN F. FLAGG

John F. Flagg, forty-seven, for many years New York correspondent of "The Philadelphia Inquirer," died of spinal meningitis Friday at his home, 8718 Bay Parkway, at 1:30 p. m. Flagg was born in Huntington, Long Island, and went to school there. He took up telegraphy and obtained a position with the Western Union. After several years in the market, reporting for the Western Union he was transferred to the offices of "The Philadelphia Inquirer" as an operator. His ability to handle news was appreciated, and he was made New York correspondent. He is said to have given news to "The Philadelphia Inquirer" at the rate of 4,500 words an hour. Flagg was a member of the Foreign Correspondents' Club of New York and the Telegraphers' Union.

RICHARD DEEVES

Richard Deeves, eighty-two, a builder and founder of the firm of Richard Deeves & Son, Inc., 309 Broadway, died yesterday at his home, 58 West Eighty-third Street. Mr. Deeves was the builder of the New York City Apartments, Fifty-ninth Street and Seventh Avenue; the Manhattan Life Insurance Building, the Tuxedo Theatre, the Madison Square Theatre, the Manhattan Warehouse, the New York Athletic Club, and Sherry's Restaurant.

Mr. Deeves was born in Queens County, Ireland. In 1869 he established his building firm. He was a member of the commercial department of the 12th National Guard Regiment for many years. He was a commissioner of the Williamsburg Bridge Commission and a member of the New York State Board of Trade and Transportation, the Merchants' Association, the Chamber of Commerce, the Engineers' Club and the Republic Club. He is survived by his widow, two daughters and a brother.

DR. CHARLES D. RAINE

Dr. Charles Daniels Raine, seventy, until recently principal of Public School 147, Buswick Avenue and McKibbin Street, Brooklyn, died Thursday. Dr. Raine was born in Pennsylvania, N. J., and at an early age began teaching in the country schools of New Jersey. He was a member of the National Education Association, the Teachers' Association, the Chamber of Commerce, the Engineers' Club and the Republic Club. He is survived by his widow, two daughters and a brother.

Obituary Notes

MARSHALL W. NAUM, twenty-six, the son of Mr. and Mrs. David W. Naum, of Greenwich, Conn., died Friday at his home there. He was in the employ of the Sterling Coal Company, of this city, and during the war was an assistant in the emergency coal department of the United States Shipping Board. He belonged to the New York City Club, the Algonquin Apartments, 165 Audubon Avenue.

MRS. BARBARA ELLIEN, ninety-five, died Thursday at her home, 15 Dorset Avenue, Jamaica, Long Island. She was born in Bavaria and came to this country twenty-five years ago and married Jacob Ellien, who came here on the same ship. They settled on land between Jamaica and Flushing, which they farmed many years.

HARRY F. CARLSON, thirty-four, of 152 Pacific Avenue, Brooklyn, died Tuesday last in Albuquerque, N. M. He was associated with his father in the Carlson Operating Company, makers and renters of hoisting apparatus.

J. J. HENRY MULLER, seventy-four, owner of a furniture business in Newark many years, died at Catskill, N. Y. He was born in Hanover, Germany, and after serving in the war between Hanover and Prussia, came to this country in 1867, living in Brooklyn, Jersey City and Newark. Mr. Muller is survived by his wife, three sons and six grandchildren.

CAPTAIN GEORGE S. HEALEY, seventy-two, a sea captain and Civil War veteran, died suddenly at a home near Groton, Friday night. He was prominent among yachtsmen and was a member of the Jib B on Club of New London and the Masonic order.

BIRTHS

HERSKOVITS—Mr. and Mrs. Irving Herskovits, of 206 West 92d st., announce birth of a daughter.

ENGAGEMENTS

MALCOLM—EMERSON—Mrs. Charles F. Emerson, of Titusville, Penn., announces the engagement of her daughter, Lucie Constance, to Mr. Edward Bowell Malcolms, of Montreal, Canada.

MILLER—SMITH—Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor Smith, of Philadelphia, wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen, to W. Allan Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Miller, of Mount Vernon, N. Y.

MOSS—GOLDBERG—Mrs. Jennie Goldberg, of 206 West 92d st., announces the engagement of her daughter, Ruth, to Mr. Lawrence Moss, of New York.

POSS—SMINK—Mrs. B. Smink, of 42 Bay 25th st., Bensonhurst, announces the engagement of her daughter, Mae, to Mr. Jacob M. Poss, Reception Sunday, October 19, Hotel Ansonia, 2 to 6. No cards.

MARRIAGES

BAIRD—RIEDER—On Saturday, October 18, 1919, in the chapel of Trinity Church, New York City, Camille Fanny, daughter of Monsieur and Madame Rieder, of Foches-le-Châtel, France, to William Torrey Baird, Jr., of South Orange, N. J.

BUTLER—STAGG—On Saturday, October 18, in the West End Collegiate Church, West End av. and 77th st., by the Rev. Henry E. Cobb, Martha Hogenkamp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cobb, Wyckoff, N. J., to Charles William Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Butler, of Hackensack, N. J.

DEATHS

BARRETT—On October 16, 1919, at Mount Vernon, N. Y., Nathan F. Barrett, aged 74 years, died at his home, 100 West 10th St., New York City, on Monday, at 1:30 p. m.

BECHTEL—Florence, on October 17, Services THE FUNERAL CHURCH, Broadway, 56th st. (Frank E. Campbell), Sunday, 10 a. m.

BERNHEIM—Rose Bernheim (née Raub), on Thursday, October 16, beloved wife of Jacob A. and mother of Madeline and Andrew, died at her home, 100 West 10th St., New York City, on Monday, at 1:30 p. m.

BUNOUT—On October 17, 1919, Gustave T. Bunout, beloved husband of Bertha B. Bunout and beloved son of Amelia and the late Gustave Bunout, died at his home, 170 Blandford Road, New York City, on Monday, at 10 o'clock.

BUSH—Mary, on October 17, Services THE FUNERAL CHURCH, Broadway, 56th st. (Frank E. Campbell), Sunday, 8 p. m.

BULLARD—Louise McLean Bullard, widow of John Bullard, died on October 17, formerly residing at 455 Bedford av., Richmond Hill, N. Y.; born November 14, 1851, at New Orleans, La.; sister of Benjamin and Frank C. McLean. Funeral services Sunday, October 19, 1919, at the funeral parlors of R. Pettit, 504 Gates av., Brooklyn, N. Y., at 3 p. m. Interment at Waterford, N. Y.

DEEVES—Richard, husband of Alice Reed, on Thursday, October 17, in his 83d year, at his residence, 58 West 83d st., died at his residence, 58 West 83d st., Sunday, October 19, 1919, at 10 a. m.

GOLDSTONE—At her residence, 68 East 118th st., on October 16, Lena, beloved mother of Edna, Rose, Nat, Jack, Abe and Mrs. Mitchell. Funeral Sunday, October 19, at 10 a. m.

GREVE—On October 16, William Greve, at his home, 492 1st st., Brooklyn, in his 67th year. Services Sunday, at 4 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. W. T. O. S. Washington Irving Circle, C. of A.; Humbold Lodge, I. O. F. A.; Zion Lodge, I. O. O. F. of L., kindly note.

HARRIS—On October 17, Samuel J., of Trenton, N. J., beloved husband of Rose Harris and father of three children. Funeral from Meyer's Funeral Parlor, 228 Lenox av., Sunday, October 19, at 10 a. m.

HARRIS—At her residence, 425 West 119th st., Friday, October 17, Henrietta M., wife of the late William M. A. Harris. Services at the Methodist Church at Ocean View, N. Y., Monday, October 20, at 2 p. m.

HAYWARD—On Thursday, October 16, Lansing Stuart, aged 21 years and 4 months. Services at his late residence, 1790 Walton av., Bronx, on Sunday, at 2 p. m. Interment Woodlawn. Pittsburgh papers please copy.

HUMPHREY—At Kingston, N. Y., Ruth Agnes Humphrey, beloved sister of the Rev. William C. Humphrey, died at family residence, 134 Wall st., October 17. Funeral Monday morning from residence at 10 o'clock. Solemn high mass of requiem at St. Joseph's Church, Kingston, at 10:30 a. m., October 20.

JOHNSON—At Lock Harbour, N. J., on October 16, 1919, Mary A. Johnson, died 70 years, widow of Dr. Samuel Johnson, of Ashbury Park. Funeral services at the Throckmorton Hotel, Lock Harbour, on Sunday, October 20, at 2 p. m.

ADVERTISEMENTS

THOMAS DUNWORTH
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
PRIVATE RECEPTION ROOMS
180 WEST 71ST ST. (EAST OF B'LDG)
Telephone Columbia 9182
COURTESY AND ECONOMY
ON BURIALS AND FUNERALS

AS YOU WOULD HAVE IT
A Service in the privacy rendered by those who have endeavored to bring peace and comfort to the hours of bereavement and to the funeral.

HOWARD L. HALL, Funeral Director
Phone ASTORIA 11
140 W. 100th St.

EMPLOY A SPECIALIST
E. Willis Scott
FREE CHAPEL PERSONAL ATTENTION
IDEAL SERVICE CITY AND COUNTRY
H. H. Jackson, Sexton Emeritus
Funeral Director, Thirty years experience
Office 20 Charles St. Tel. CHAMBERS 2574

Luckings, Bender & Schutte, Inc.
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
351 Amsterdam Ave. Tel. 233-1111
Tel. Morning JOHN MCABE UNDERTAKER
also 3332

THE WOODLAWN CEMETERY
233d St. By Harlem Train and by Tröyer
Lots, small size for sale
Office, 20 East 34th St., N. Y.

FOR SALE
Chance for a quick buyer to get the lot in Woodlawn Cemetery. Address: G. J. Fox, 222 North Avenue, New Rochelle, N. Y.

THE MAN WHO DARES
By DR. BERTHOLD A. BAER.

"Your little talks are as daring," said Mr. Frank E. Campbell, founder-proprietor of The Funeral Church, Broadway at 66th Street, "as they are new in their application."

"You make the people realize what they did not dare to think: that The Funeral Church is as much an Institution for the people, as is the Museum of Fine Arts, the Public Library or any other Foundation devoted to the welfare of mankind."

The man who dares is the man who does. Mr. Campbell apparently fails to appreciate that he is the most daring of all undertakers: He dared to erect a building on Broadway at 66th Street, devoted entirely to the needs of the demised, a building which men who know declared as "the acme of perfection" and "the heaven of sorrow."

What a wonderful word-picture: "The heaven of sorrow." "He takes the sting from death," said Mrs. H. in my hearing; "I came here in the depth of despair—I go away in the heaven of sorrow."

"If the people only knew...." "How often I heard that very same expression: 'If the people only knew.' They would not keep at home their dear departed, but would bring them to The Funeral Church."

And since they do not know, I dare tell them.

ADVERTISEMENTS
THOMAS DUNWORTH
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
PRIVATE RECEPTION ROOMS
180 WEST 71ST ST. (EAST OF B'LDG)
Telephone Columbia 9182
COURTESY AND ECONOMY
ON BURIALS AND FUNERALS

AS YOU WOULD HAVE IT
A Service in the privacy rendered by those who have endeavored to bring peace and comfort to the hours of bereavement and to the funeral.

HOWARD L. HALL, Funeral Director
Phone ASTORIA 11
140 W. 100th St.

EMPLOY A SPECIALIST
E. Willis Scott
FREE CHAPEL PERSONAL ATTENTION
IDEAL SERVICE CITY AND COUNTRY
H. H. Jackson, Sexton Emeritus
Funeral Director, Thirty years experience
Office 20 Charles St. Tel. CHAMBERS 2574

Luckings, Bender & Schutte, Inc.
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
351 Amsterdam Ave. Tel. 233-1111
Tel. Morning JOHN MCABE UNDERTAKER
also 3332

THE WOODLAWN CEMETERY
233d St. By Harlem Train and by Tröyer
Lots, small size for sale
Office, 20 East 34th St., N. Y.

FOR SALE
Chance for a quick buyer to get the lot in Woodlawn Cemetery. Address: G. J. Fox, 222 North Avenue, New Rochelle, N. Y.

THE MAN WHO DARES
By DR. BERTHOLD A. BAER.

"Your little talks are as daring," said Mr. Frank E. Campbell, founder-proprietor of The Funeral Church, Broadway at 66th Street, "as they are new in their application."

"You make the people realize what they did not dare to think: that The Funeral Church is as much an Institution for the people, as is the Museum of Fine Arts, the Public Library or any other Foundation devoted to the welfare of mankind."

The man who dares is the man who does. Mr. Campbell apparently fails to appreciate that he is the most daring of all undertakers: He dared to erect a building on Broadway at 66th Street, devoted entirely to the needs of the demised, a building which men who know declared as "the acme of perfection" and "the heaven of sorrow."

What a wonderful word-picture: "The heaven of sorrow." "He takes the sting from death," said Mrs. H. in my hearing; "I came here in the depth of despair—I go away in the heaven of sorrow."

"If the people only knew...." "How often I heard that very same expression: 'If the people only knew.' They would not keep at home their dear departed, but would bring them to The Funeral Church."

And since they do not know, I dare tell them.

ADVERTISEMENTS
THOMAS DUNWORTH
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
PRIVATE RECEPTION ROOMS
180 WEST 71ST ST. (EAST OF B'LDG)
Telephone Columbia 9182
COURTESY AND ECONOMY
ON BURIALS AND FUNERALS

AS YOU WOULD HAVE IT
A Service in the privacy rendered by those who have endeavored to bring peace and comfort to the hours of bereavement and to the funeral.

HOWARD L. HALL, Funeral Director
Phone ASTORIA 11
140 W. 100th St.

EMPLOY A SPECIALIST
E. Willis Scott
FREE CHAPEL PERSONAL ATTENTION
IDEAL SERVICE CITY AND COUNTRY
H. H. Jackson, Sexton Emeritus
Funeral Director, Thirty years experience
Office 20 Charles St. Tel. CHAMBERS 2574

Luckings, Bender & Schutte, Inc.
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
351 Amsterdam Ave. Tel. 233-1111
Tel. Morning JOHN MCABE UNDERTAKER
also 3332

THE WOODLAWN CEMETERY
233d St. By Harlem Train and by Tröyer
Lots, small size for sale
Office, 20 East 34th St., N. Y.

FOR SALE
Chance for a quick buyer to get the lot in Woodlawn Cemetery. Address: G. J. Fox, 222 North Avenue, New Rochelle, N. Y.

THE MAN WHO DARES
By DR. BERTHOLD A. BAER.

"Your little talks are as daring," said Mr. Frank E. Campbell, founder-proprietor of The Funeral Church, Broadway at 66th Street, "as they are new in their application."

"You make the people realize what they did not dare to think: that The Funeral Church is as much an Institution for the people, as is the Museum of Fine Arts, the Public Library or any other Foundation devoted to the welfare of mankind."

The man who dares is the man who does. Mr. Campbell apparently fails to appreciate that he is the most daring of all undertakers: He dared to erect a building on Broadway at 66th Street, devoted entirely to the needs of the demised, a building which men who know declared as "the acme of perfection" and "the heaven of sorrow."

What a wonderful word-picture: "The heaven of sorrow." "He takes the sting from death," said Mrs. H. in my hearing; "I came here in the depth of despair—I go away in the heaven of sorrow."